

Cathy Yap is a principal in the firm of Barkovich & Yap, Inc., and has been consulting in the utility regulatory area for over thirty years. During this time, she has directed and/or performed major examinations of cost-of-service requirements, allocation, rate design, and customer bill effects for electric, natural gas, water, and solid waste utilities. She has testified on numerous occasions before the California Public Utilities Commission (“Commission”), other state Commissions, and in civil proceedings. She has consulted internationally on issues related to natural gas industry structure and marginal cost allocation and rate design.

Prior to this, Cathy was employed for nine years by the Commission. Most recently, she was responsible for managing the Energy Rate Design and Economics Branch of the Public Staff Division, which was a predecessor to the Office of Ratepayer Advocates. This branch was responsible for developing cost of service, cost allocation, rate design, and economic studies for both electric and gas utilities. Prior to that she was the Supervisor of the Gas Supply and Requirements Section of the Fuels Branch of the PSD. Previously, she was a staff economist in the Policy Division acting as a consultant to the Executive Director and to various Commissioners.

Cathy has a B.A. in chemical physics from the University of California at Santa Cruz, and a M.S. in Energy and Resources from the University of California at Berkeley. She has also taken course work in finance, accounting, and organization theory from the University of California, Extension, and Golden Gate University.
